

JOSEPH W. TORREY.

DECEMBER 23, 1831.

Reprinted by order of the House of Representatives.

JANUARY 25, 1831.

Mr. DANIEL, from the Committee on the Judiciary, made the following

REPORT:

The Committee on the Judiciary, to which was referred the petition of Joseph W. Torrey, praying compensation for professional services rendered to the United States as an attorney of Michigan Territory, have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report:

On the second Monday in June, 1830, in the circuit court held by the additional judge at Green Bay, Osh-Rosh, a chief of the Menomonee Indians, and two other principal men of the nation, were arraigned on an indictment for murder. There was no Indian agent present to provide counsel for them, and the court assigned Joseph W. Torrey, Esq., an attorney of the court, to conduct their defence. The judge certifies that the services were performed, and that one hundred dollars is a reasonable compensation. The committee therefore report a bill.

Report of order of the House of Representatives

JANUARY 25, 1872

JOSEPH W. TORREY, from the Committee on the Judiciary, made the following

REPORT

The Committee on the Judiciary, to which was referred the petition of Joseph W. Torrey, against compensation for professional services rendered in the United States as an attorney of the United States, reports that the same under consideration, and beg leave to report.

On the second Monday in June, 1839, in the circuit court held by the additional judge at Green Bay, Osh-Rosh, a chief of the Menominee Indians, and two other principal men of the nation, were assigned as an agent for Torrey. There was no Indian agent present to provide counsel for them, and the court assigned Joseph W. Torrey, Esq., an attorney of the court, to conduct their defense. The judge certifies that the services were performed, and that one hundred dollars is a reasonable compensation. The committee therefore report a bill.
